1. Introduction

The True Consequences of a Criminal Conviction

The impact of a criminal conviction is greater than a number of days in prison or a number of dollars fined. Hundreds of federal, state, and local laws impose additional consequences on people convicted of crimes, many of which remain in effect far beyond any judicially-imposed sentence. Unlike incarceration and fines, however, those additional consequences are frequently unknown to attorneys, judges, and the individuals whose lives they profoundly affect.

This publication attempts to document the true impact of a criminal conviction in Colorado. It contains consequences that arise under Colorado law, yet are not included in the sentence imposed by a judge at the conclusion of a criminal case. The goal of this work is to provide all participants in the criminal justice system a more accurate understanding of how a conviction will impact the life of an accused person and, less directly, the community in which that person will ultimately live.

Since the first edition was published Colorado law has expanded the number of consequences associated with a conviction, but added mechanisms to help some individuals obtain relief. It is thus more important than ever for people accused of a crime, and all participants in the justice system, to be aware of the true consequences of a conviction.

Five Critical Questions for Assessing Consequences

Some of the consequences mentioned in this publication—such as the loss of a public benefit—can have an immediate impact on accused persons and their families. Other consequences, however, may be impossible to identify as issues before a criminal case reaches disposition. For instance, a person charged with a crime may not be aware that he or she will one day aspire to enter a profession for which being convicted of that crime is disqualifying.

Five questions can help individuals and their attorneys identify those consequences most likely to impact their decision-making process as a case moves toward disposition.¹ These questions are particularly important due to legislation allowing Orders of Collateral Relief from particular consequences to be issued at the time of sentencing. This publication is loosely organized around these questions, which are designed to be asked of people accused of criminal offenses:

1. How are you employed?

In many professions certain charges or convictions can result in losing a government issued license or certificate necessary to work. Students can also be affected. Asking this question can help identify whether an individual works or studies in a field likely to track and care about criminal activity.

2. Do you receive any public benefits?

Eligibility for many public benefits can be lost upon conviction for certain crimes, including public housing. Asking this question can identify whether an individual is at risk of losing critical support, either for themselves or their family.

3. What is your family situation?

Some types of convictions can impair an individual's ability to be a part of his or her family, especially when children are involved. Asking about family can identify whether this is a concern.

4. Do you own, or will you want to own, any firearms?

Any felony conviction or a misdemeanor involving domestic violence can leave an individual permanently unable to possess a firearm. Asking this question can both determine whether that is a concern and warn against future charges resulting from unlawful possession of a weapon.

5. Are you a United States citizen?

Non-citizens charged with crimes are often at risk of either being deported or deemed inadmissible. Asking this question can determine whether immigration status is a necessary concern.

Collateral Consequences Defined Under State Law

State law defines the term "collateral consequence." In most contexts, it means either a mandatory "collateral sanction," or a discretionary "disqualification." C.R.S. 18-1.3-107(8). Specifically:

- "Collateral sanction" means a penalty, prohibition, bar, or disadvantage, however denominated, imposed on an individual as a result of the individual's conviction of an offense, which penalty, prohibition, bar, or disadvantage applies by operation of law regardless of whether the penalty, prohibition, bar, or disadvantage is included in the judgment or sentence. "Collateral sanction" does not include imprisonment, probation, parole, supervised release, forfeiture, restitution, fine, assessment, costs of prosecution, or a restraint or sanction on an individual's driving privilege.

- “Disqualification” means a penalty, prohibition, bar, or disadvantage, however denominated, that an administrative agency, governmental official, or court in a civil proceeding is authorized, but not required, to impose on an individual on grounds relating to the individual’s conviction of an offense.

Most of the consequences listed in this publication fall within this statutory definition of “collateral consequence.” Some consequences not meeting this definition have been included where necessary for individuals and practitioners to fully assess their situation.

The Impact of Federal Law

Federal law imposes numerous consequences of conviction beyond those created by Colorado statutes and regulations, but is generally beyond the scope of this publication. A few broadly applicable federal statutes and regulations have been included for purposes of making this publication more useful to the general public and legal community.

For additional information, the National Inventory of the Collateral Consequences of Conviction,² a searchable website created by the American Bar Association, lists the collateral consequences imposed by federal law and the law of many other jurisdictions. Additionally, the Public Defender Service for the District of Columbia, in conjunction with the American Bar Association, has assembled an excellent resource focused on federal consequences titled Internal Exile: Collateral Consequences of Conviction in Federal Laws and Regulations.³

Limitations of this Publication

This publication describes consequences arising under the 2014 Colorado statutes and most electronically-searchable Colorado regulations. Due to the volume of material covered it is necessarily incomplete, as some statutes and regulations have inevitably been missed. Regulations have not been included where they are substantively duplicative of statutory consequences.

The internal policies established by individual state and local agencies are not included. Those policies can, however, have a profound impact on the consequences of a conviction. Local public housing authorities, for example, may have widely different positions on how a conviction impacts eligibility.

Sparse information regarding enforcement is another major limitation. Every effort has been made to note where statutory language indicates a particular penalty or sanction is required. In many cases, however, a criminal conviction “may” prevent someone from obtaining a particular license, certification, or benefit. How individual agencies exercise that discretion is difficult to ascertain. In some cases what appears to be discretionary language could be enforced in a way that effectively renders a consequence mandatory.

In sum, this publication is intended only as a guide to be used in identifying issues. It is not a substitute for legal advice, and people with specific issues should talk to an attorney.

2. Why Criminal Records Matter

Widespread Availability of Criminal History

Criminal history records are widely available. Colorado is an open records state, meaning that the custodians of criminal justice records may allow any person to inspect those records except under limited circumstances. C.R.S. 24-72-305(1). The general public can search Colorado criminal records instantaneously and at minimal expense through the Colorado Bureau of Investigation's website, without having to provide a verifiable reason for the search.

Widespread record availability has profoundly impacted individuals' ability to move beyond an arrest or criminal conviction. Gone are the days when a minor run-in with the law could be forgotten. Because any potential employer, landlord, creditor, or government program administrator can check criminal records at any time, any prior interaction with the justice system can become an easily detectable and frequently permanent blemish upon an individual.

Limited Sealing of Criminal Records

Criminal records can only be sealed under limited circumstances. Instructions for sealing criminal records, as well as the documents necessary for doing so, can be found on the Colorado State Judicial Branch website.⁴

Employers and state and local government agencies are generally prohibited from requiring applicants to disclose any information contained in sealed records. Landlords and educational institutions appear to be subject to the same restrictions. C.R.S. 24-72-702(1)(f), 24-72-703(4)(d).

1. Records other than convictions.

Under C.R.S. 24-72-702, individuals can request to seal arrest and criminal records other than those pertaining to a conviction if:

- The records pertain to official actions involving a criminal offense for which the person in interest completed a diversion agreement, or was not charged and any applicable statute of limitations has run, or was not charged but the person is no longer being investigated by law enforcement, or a case which was completely dismissed, or a case in which the person was acquitted, or
- The records pertain to a case that was dismissed due to a plea agreement in a separate case, and:
 - o A petition to seal the records is filed ten years or more after the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the person, and ⁴ <http://www.courts.state.co.us/Forms/SubCategory.cfm?Category=Seal>.

- The person has not been charged for any criminal offense in the ten years since the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings.
- Records pertaining to offenses resolved by pretrial diversion generally must be sealed, upon request by the defendant, following successful completion of the agreement. C.R.S. 18-1.3-101(10)(c).
- Exclusions apply to:
 - Records pertaining to class 1 or class 2 misdemeanor traffic offenses.
 - Records pertaining to class A or class B traffic infractions.
 - Deferred judgment and sentences for violating certain driving under the influence laws.
 - Deferred judgment and sentences for which the factual basis involved unlawful sexual behavior, as defined in section 16-22-102(9).
 - Deferred judgment and sentences pertaining to an offense concerning the holder of a commercial driver's license, or the operator of a commercial motor vehicle.
- Employers, educational institutions, state and local government agencies, officials, and employees shall not require an applicant to disclose any information in records sealed under these provisions. C.R.S. 24-72-702(1)(f).
- Some organizations, including the bar committee, the Department of Education, and criminal justice agencies, may still have access to some information in records sealed under these provisions.

2. Records relating to convictions generally.

Records related to several types of criminal convictions can also be sealed. An order sealing conviction records is less effective, as it does not deny access to the criminal records by any party or agency required by law to conduct a criminal history record check on an individual. C.R.S. 24-72-703(4). However, employers, state and local government agencies, officials, landlords, and employees shall not require an applicant to disclose any information in sealed conviction records. C.R.S. 24-72-703(4)(d). Individuals with sealed convictions may face a difficult decision regarding whether to tell others about a conviction the individual is not required to disclose but could nevertheless be discoverable.

3. Records relating to controlled substance convictions.

Individuals can request to seal conviction records for select offenses involving controlled substances. Under most circumstances, a sealing order will not deny access to the criminal records by any court, law enforcement agency, criminal justice agency, prosecuting attorney, or party or agency required by law to conduct a criminal history check on an individual. C.R.S. 24-72-703(4).

Effective October 1, 2013, most controlled substance offenses are classified as “drug” offenses. The following sealing limitations apply to qualifying drug offenses entered on or after July 1, 2011, and after the new classification scheme has taken effect. C.R.S. 24-72-705(1)(c).

- For a petty drug offense, the petition may be filed one year after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For a level 2 drug misdemeanor, the petition may be filed three years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For a level 1 drug misdemeanor, the petition may be filed five years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For a level 4 drug felony, the petition may be filed seven years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For all other drug felonies in article 18 of title 18, the petition may be filed ten years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For all offenses, the individual seeking sealing must provide a criminal history documenting that he or she has not been charged with a criminal offense since the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings or since the date of the individual's release from supervision. C.R.S. 24-72-705(1)(e).

For qualifying offenses under article 18 of title 18, for which the conviction was entered after July 1, 2011, but before the new classification scheme took effect, the following limitations apply. C.R.S. 24-72-705(1)(b).

- For a petty offense or a class 2 or 3 misdemeanor, the petition may be filed three years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For a class 1 misdemeanor, the petition may be filed five years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For class 5 or 6 felonies, the petition may be filed seven years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For all other offenses in article 18 of title 18, the petition may be filed ten years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- For all offenses, the individual seeking sealing must provide a criminal history documenting that he or she has not been charged with a criminal offense since the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings or since the date of the individual's release from supervision. C.R.S. 24-72-705(1)(d).

For qualifying controlled substance convictions entered on or after July 1, 2008, and prior to July 1, 2011, sealing is possible under section 24-72-704 when:

- A petition to seal the records is filed ten years or more after the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision, whichever is later, and
- The defendant has not been charged with a criminal offense in the ten years or more since the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings or the release of the defendant from supervision.

Additional provisions apply to qualifying controlled substance convictions entered prior to July 1, 2008. C.R.S. 24-72-704(2)(b).

4. Petty and municipal offense convictions.

Conviction records pertaining to petty offenses and municipal violations may be sealed under 24-72-708. A sealing order under that provision will not deny access to the criminal records by any court, law enforcement agency, criminal justice agency, prosecuting attorney, or party or agency required by law to conduct a criminal history check on an individual. C.R.S. 24-72-703(4). The following limits apply.

- A petition to seal records must be filed three or more years after the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision, whichever is later, and
- The defendant must not have been charged or convicted for a felony, misdemeanor, or misdemeanor traffic offense in the three or more years since the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant, or the defendant's release from supervision, whichever is later.
- Exclusions apply for misdemeanor traffic offenses committed by commercial drivers. C.R.S. 24-72-708(1)(a)(III).

5. Other convictions.

The following classes of individuals may also petition courts for sealing of certain conviction records.

- People convicted or charged with underage possession or consumption of alcohol or marijuana. C.R.S. 18-13-122(13).
- People convicted of posting a private image for harassment or posting a private image for pecuniary gain. C.R.S. 24-72-709.
- People convicted of theft of public transportation services by fare evasion, as it existed prior to June 8, 2012. C.R.S. 24-72-707.
- Victims of human trafficking convicted of several types of offenses. C.R.S. 24-72-706.

Limited Expunging Opportunities

Colorado does not have a widely available mechanism for expunging adult criminal records.

Most juvenile records can be expunged if statutory eligibility criteria are satisfied. C.R.S. 19-1-306. Instructions for expunging juvenile adjudications, as well as the documents necessary for doing so, can be found on the Colorado State Judicial Branch website.⁵ Juvenile records cannot be expunged for:

- A person who has been adjudicated as an aggravated juvenile offender pursuant to C.R.S. 19-2-516(4) or a violent juvenile offender pursuant to C.R.S. 19-2-516(3).
- A person who, as a juvenile, has been charged by the direct filing of an information in the district court or by indictment pursuant to C.R.S. 19-2-517, unless the person was sentenced as a juvenile in the same matter.
- A person who has been adjudicated for an offense involving unlawful sexual behavior as defined in C.R.S. 16-22-102(9).
- A person who has failed to pay court-ordered restitution to a victim of the offense that is the basis for the juvenile record.
- Records also may not be expunged if the person, since the termination of the court's jurisdiction or the person's unconditional release from parole supervision, has been convicted of or adjudicated delinquent for any felony offense or a misdemeanor involving domestic violence, unlawful sexual behavior, or possession of a weapon. C.R.S. 19-1-306(5)(c).

Victims of human trafficking related offenses may be exempt from some of these limitations. C.R.S. 19-1-306(5)(d).

Courts and the Department of Revenue can expunge records of a conviction for underage drinking and driving with a BAC of at least .02 but not more than .05 if the person requesting the action is over twenty-one years of age and several additional criteria are met. C.R.S. 42-2-121(5), 42-4-1715(1)(b).

Biological samples collected following a felony arrest can be expunged under some circumstances. C.R.S. 16-23-105.

Relief from Collateral Consequences

The General Assembly passed several laws in 2013 designed to address, and in some cases alleviate, the collateral consequences of interactions with the criminal justice system.

1. Orders of Collateral Relief

Courts may now issue an Order of Collateral Relief, which relieves a person of specific collateral consequences for the purpose of preserving or enhancing employment prospects and improving that person's likelihood of success. The orders "may relieve a defendant of any collateral consequence of the conviction, whether in housing or employment barriers or any other sanction or disqualification that the court shall specify, including but not limited to statutory, regulatory, or other collateral consequences that the court may see fit to relieve ..." They are available to any defendant being sentenced to probation, community corrections, or an "alternative to sentencing" under part 1 of article 1.3 of title 18. C.R.S. 18-1.3-107, 18-1.3-213, 18-1.3-303.

Orders of Collateral Relief cannot relieve any collateral consequence imposed by law for licensure with the Department of Education, or for employment with the Judicial Branch, the Department of Corrections, the division of youth services in the Department of Human Services, or any other law enforcement agency in the State of Colorado. Additionally, courts cannot issue an Order of Collateral Relief if the defendant: (1) has been convicted of a felony that included an element that requires a victim to suffer permanent disability, (2) has been convicted of a crime of violence, as defined by section 18-1.3-406, or (3) is required to register as a sex offender pursuant to section 16-22-103. C.R.S. 18-1.3-107, 18-1.3-213, 18-1.3-303.

Instructions for obtaining an Order of Collateral Relief, as well as documents necessary for doing so, can be found on the Colorado State Judicial Branch website.⁶

2. Pretrial Diversion

The General Assembly also passed legislation designed to "facilitate and encourage" pretrial diversion of appropriate defendants. Pretrial diversion is intended to ensure defendant accountability while "allowing defendants to avoid the collateral consequences associated with criminal charges and convictions." C.R.S. 18-1.3-101(1).

Diversion is, in essence, an agreement between an individual defendant and a prosecutor. If that agreement is successfully completed, the diversion is not to be considered a conviction for any purpose. C.R.S. 18-1.3-101(10)(b). Additionally, diversion allows record sealing opportunities after the agreement is complete. C.R.S. 18-1.3-101(10)(c). Because diversion does not require a guilty plea, and is not a conviction, a diversion disposition should not trigger many of the collateral consequences discussed in this publication.

⁶ http://www.courts.state.co.us/Forms/Forms_List.cfm?Form_Type_ID=254.

Some types of cases may be statutorily exempt from diversion eligibility, depending upon the circumstances of the individual jurisdiction. C.R.S. 18-1.3-101(3) to -101(7).

3. Pardon

A pardon issued by the governor shall waive all collateral consequences associated with each conviction for which the person received a pardon, unless the pardon is limited. C.R.S. 16-17-103(1).

3. Employment

Appendix I contains a list of individual professions where a criminal conviction (or in some cases a criminal charge) can be either disqualifying or potentially disqualifying under Colorado statutes and regulations. The information in this chapter is broadly applicable to Colorado employers and employees.

Critical Employment Areas

1. Government Licenses, Certificates, Registrations, and Contracts
 - As a general rule, if a job requires any type of government-issued license, certificate, registration, or contract, then a criminal conviction could have adverse employment consequences.
2. Vulnerable People and Positions of Trust
 - As a general rule, the greater the extent to which a job involves working with vulnerable populations (i.e. students, the mentally ill, prisoners, etc.), the greater the extent to which a criminal conviction may curtail employment possibilities.
 - Also as a general rule, the greater the extent to which a job involves a position of trust or responsibility (i.e. financial responsibility, responsibility for the wellbeing of another, etc.), the greater the extent to which a criminal conviction may curtail employment possibilities.

Guilty Pleas, Nolo Contendere, Deferred Judgment, and Diversion

When evaluating a criminal offense, the entities that regulate most of the professions listed in Appendix I treat a guilty plea, a plea of nolo contendere, or a deferred judgment and sentence, the same way that they treat a conviction following trial.

Because diversion is not a conviction, it is less likely to be considered for purposes of regulating employment. Some of the professions listed in Appendix I, however, consider criminal conduct or character as well as convictions. Additionally, some of the applicable statutes specifically reference either diversion or deferred prosecution (the predecessor to diversion).

Defining Crimes of Moral Turpitude

Many of the professions listed in Appendix I are regulated by entities that consider whether a license holder or applicant has been convicted of a crime involving “moral turpitude.” The phrase “moral turpitude” has not been defined by any broadly applicable statute, at least as used in that context.

What constitutes “moral turpitude” appears to be a case-by-case determination dependent upon the elements of the crime at issue and the factual circumstances of the situation. Interpreting that phrase, Colorado courts have held that a wide range of conduct involves moral turpitude.⁷ One of the few cases holding that a particular offense was not a crime of moral turpitude involved driving while ability impaired.⁸

The Effect of Out-of-State and Federal Convictions

Many of the statutes regulating professions listed in Appendix I specify that out-of-state or federal convictions count against an applicant or licensee in the same way as a Colorado conviction. Many others do not specify. Just because another state does not consider a certain type of conviction disqualifying does not mean that Colorado authorities will agree.

The Effect of Internal Regulations and Policies

This publication contains only Westlaw-searchable Colorado statutes and regulations. It does not include all of the internal regulations and policies followed by individual governmental authorities or agencies. One therefore cannot assume, based on the absence of a mandatory disqualification listed in Appendix I, that an individual employed in a regulated profession will not be subject to an adverse employment action if convicted of a crime.

The Effect of Federal Law

The impact of federal law is beyond the scope of this publication. Nevertheless, federal restrictions on some broadly applicable professions, such as military service, have been included in the list of occupations in Appendix I.

Nearly all jobs working for the federal government are subject to criminal history checks.⁹ The extent to which a criminal record will prevent employment varies from job to job. Most jobs requiring federal licensure also have restrictions on persons with various types of criminal history, many of which are in addition to the state mandated restrictions listed in Appendix I. Federally regulated occupations with such restrictions include but are not limited to:

- Federal law enforcement.
- Child care.

⁷ For examples, see People v. Martin, 897 P.2d 802, 804 (Colo. 1995) (third degree sexual assault); People v. Emeson, 638 P.2d 293, 295 (Colo. 1981) (willful failure to file a tax return); R & F Enterprises, Inc. v. Board of County Commissioners, 606 P.2d 64, 67 (Colo. 1980) (prostitution); People v. Silvola, 575 P.2d 413, 413 (Colo. 1978) (theft). See also C.R.S. 10-2-801(1)(g) (“moral turpitude” shall include any sexual offense against a child, for purposes of insurance regulation statute).

- Transportation industries (air, road, rail, or sea).
- Commodity dealers.
- Broadcast licensing.
- Firearms related professions (arms use, dealing, transportation, etc.).
- Farm labor contractors.
- Financial institutions (banks, brokers, dealers, investment advisers, etc.).
- Jobs requiring a security clearance.

The degree to which a person’s criminal history will preclude employment frequently depends on the nature of the individual job and applicant. For additional information, see the National Inventory of the Collateral Consequences of Conviction,¹⁰ produced by the American Bar Association, and Internal Exile: Collateral Consequences of Conviction in Federal Laws and Regulations,¹¹ produced by the American Bar Association and Public Defender Service of the District of Columbia.

Governmental Restrictions Based on Criminal Record

Under many circumstances a criminal offense cannot serve as the sole basis for the state denying an employment opportunity. Colorado’s Public Employment Eligibility Statute provides: “the fact that a person has been convicted of a felony or other offense involving moral turpitude shall not, in and of itself, prevent the person from applying for and obtaining public employment or from applying for and receiving a license, certification, permit, or registration required by the laws of this state to follow any business, occupation, or profession.” C.R.S. 24-5-101(1)(a).

The intent of the statute is to expand employment opportunities for people who “have been rehabilitated and are ready to accept the responsibilities of a law-abiding and productive member of society.” However, it exempts certain professions, including:

- Peace officers.
- People in positions involving direct contact with vulnerable persons.
- Educators.
- Persons employed in public or private correctional facilities or juvenile facilities.
- Persons employed by the Department of Public Safety.
- Persons employed by the Department of Corrections.
- PERA employees.
- State offices and convictions described in article XII, section 4, of the Colorado Constitution.

Regarding “moral character” requirements, the statute provides: “Whenever any state or local agency is required to make a finding that an applicant for a license, certification, permit, or registration is a person of good moral character as a condition to the issuance thereof, the fact that such applicant has, at some time prior thereto, been convicted of a felony or other offense involving moral turpitude, and pertinent circumstances connected with such conviction, shall be given consideration in determining whether, in fact, the applicant is a person of good moral character at the time of the application.” C.R.S. 24-5-101(2).

The statute places restrictions on agencies’ use of criminal history in hiring decisions. With certain exceptions, an agency shall not perform a background check until the agency determines that an applicant is a finalist. Arrests or charges that did not result in convictions, and are not actively pending, cannot be used as the basis for not making an offer of employment or for withdrawing a conditional offer of employment. Other types of criminal records may disqualify a person for a position, but the agency must consider the nature of the conviction, the relationship between the conviction and the job, any information regarding rehabilitation and good conduct, and that time that has elapsed since the conviction. C.R.S. 24-5-101(3), -101(4).

The Public Employment Eligibility Statute applies to all licensing entities falling under title 10 and 12 of the Colorado statutes, unless there is a specific statutory disqualification. C.R.S. 24-34-102(8.7). Many professions are, however, regulated by statutes that seem to exempt them from the Public Employment Eligibility Statute. See Appendix I for additional information.

Private Restrictions Based on Criminal Record

Private employers have great discretion in determining whether to hire people with a criminal record, and there are few checks on private employment decisions.

Under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, employers are not supposed to impose blanket exclusions on employing anyone with a prior arrest or conviction.¹² The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission issued guidance regarding consideration of arrest and conviction records in April 2012. Generally, a criminal-history-based employment prohibition should depend on: (1) the nature and gravity of the offense or offenses; (2) the time that has passed since the conviction and/or completion of the sentence; and (3) the nature of the job held or sought. Regardless, the fact remains that there are few controls on private employers.

No Colorado law prohibits discrimination by private employers based on criminal history, and employment can typically be terminated for essentially any reason. Thus, even if a state agency determines that a previously convicted person is eligible for a license to practice a certain profession, that individual has no guarantee of finding an employer willing to accept his or her criminal history.

4. Public Benefits Programs

Public Housing

The federal government has established several subsidized housing programs that are administered by local Public Housing Authorities (PHAs). Individual PHAs have great discretion regarding who—and what types of criminal histories—they will accept. Federal law, however, imposes several broadly applicable restrictions on who PHAs can admit or retain as residents.

Many of the restrictions below apply to “any household member,” thus creating a situation where the conduct of one person can result in a loss of housing for an entire family. Additionally, many are based on the PHA’s evaluation of conduct alone and do not require a conviction in order to prohibit or terminate housing.

- PHAs must prohibit admission if:
 - The PHA determines that any household member is currently engaged in illegal use of a drug.
 - The PHA determines that a household member’s illegal drug use or pattern of illegal drug use may threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by other residents.
 - Any household member has ever been convicted of drug-related criminal activity for the manufacture or production of methamphetamine on the premises of federally-assisted housing.
 - Any household member is subject to a lifetime registration requirement under a state sex offender registration program.
 - A PHA must also prohibit admission if a household member has been evicted from federally assisted housing for drug-related criminal activity within the last three years, subject to limited exceptions.
- PHAs may prohibit admission if any household member is currently engaged in or has engaged in during a reasonable time before the admission:
 - Drug-related criminal activity.
 - Violent criminal activity.
 - Other criminal activity that may threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by other residents or persons residing in the immediate vicinity.
 - Other criminal activity that may threaten the health or safety of the owner, property management staff, or persons performing a contract administration function or responsibility on behalf of the PHA.
- PHAs must terminate assistance if they determine that any member of the household has ever been convicted of producing methamphetamine on the premises of federally assisted housing.
- PHAs may terminate assistance if they determine:
 - Any household member is currently engaged in any illegal use of a drug.

- A pattern of illegal use of a drug by any household member interferes with the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by other residents.
- Any household member has engaged in violent criminal activity.
- Termination may occur if the PHA determines a household member has engaged in a prohibited activity, regardless of whether the household member was arrested or convicted for the activity.
- For additional information, see 42 U.S.C. §§ 1437f, 13661-13663; 24 C.F.R. § 982.553.

Additional restrictions may apply to public housing, even in the absence of federal regulation. For instance:

- Group homes for people with mental illness, as established pursuant to C.R.S. 30-28-115, shall not accept people determined to be not guilty by reason of insanity of a violent offense, or who have been convicted of a felony involving a violent offense. C.R.S. 30-28-115(2)(b.5), 31-23-303(2)(b.5).
- Homeless and emergency shelters have widely varying policies regarding people with a criminal history, especially violent crimes and sex offenses.

Food Stamps

- Recent federal legislation disqualifies individuals convicted of the following offenses from food stamp eligibility if they are not in compliance with the terms of their sentence or are a fleeing felon. 7 U.S.C. § 2015(r). Disqualification may impact the overall benefits to which the individual's household members are entitled. Colorado's legislature has not yet acted on these new requirements.
 - Aggravated sexual abuse under federal or similar state law.
 - Murder under federal or similar state law.
 - Sexual exploitation of children under federal or similar state law.
 - A federal or state offense involving any nonconsensual sexual act prohibited by law, including when the victim lacks capacity to consent.
- A person shall be temporarily disqualified from receiving food stamps for:
 - Obtaining, or aiding another in obtaining, food stamp benefits to which the person is not entitled. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(a). Subsequent offenses may result in permanent disqualification.
 - Being found by the agency or convicted in a court of law of having made a fraudulent statement or representation in order to receive multiple food stamp benefits simultaneously. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(b).
 - Being found guilty in a court of law of purchasing controlled substances with food stamps. An individual shall not be ineligible due to a drug conviction unless misuse of food stamp benefits is part of the court findings. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(c). Subsequent offenses may result in permanent disqualification.

- A person shall be permanently disqualified from receiving food stamps for:
 - o Trafficking in food stamps having a value of five hundred dollars or more. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(a).
 - o Being found guilty in a court of law of trading ammunition or explosives for food stamps. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(d).
- Fleeing felons and people in violation of state or federal probation or parole conditions are ineligible to participate. 10 CCR 2506-1:B-4111.
- An entire household's eligibility for benefits may be affected if one member is disqualified due to certain convictions. 10 CCR 2506-1:B-4011.1.

Federal Student Loan Eligibility

- A student who is convicted of any offense under any federal or state law involving the possession or sale of a controlled substance for conduct that occurred during a period of enrollment for which the student was receiving federal student assistance shall not be eligible to receive any grant, loan, or work assistance under either subchapter IV of chapter 28 of title 20, or part C of subchapter I of chapter 34 of title 42, from the date of that conviction for the period of time specified below. 20 U.S.C. § 1091(r).

- Subject to limited exceptions, a person entitled to benefits under articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S., shall neither receive nor be entitled to such benefits for any week following a conviction during which that person is confined in a jail, prison, or any Department of Corrections facility. After release, an individual shall be restored to the same position as he otherwise would have enjoyed with respect to benefits. C.R.S. 8-42-113.
- Any person who makes a false statement material to a claim under articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S., shall forfeit all rights to compensation. C.R.S. 8-43-402.

C.R.S. 26-2-706(3).
- A person is disqualified from receiving benefits if an inmate of a public institution, except as a patient in a public medical institution. C.R.S. 26-2-706(1.5)(d).

5. Family Concerns

Parenting Time and Decision Making Following Divorce or Separation

- In determining parenting time following a divorce or separation, courts shall consider:
 - Whether one of the parties has committed child abuse or neglect, domestic violence, or sexual assault where there is also a claim that the child in question was conceived as a result. C.R.S. 14-10-124(1.5)(a). If so, the court shall consider, as the primary concern, the safety and well-being of the child and the abused party. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(d).
 - In formulating a parenting plan, if the court finds one of the parties has committed an act of child abuse or neglect, domestic violence, or sexual assault resulting in the conception of the child, it shall consider conditions or limitations on parenting time that ensure the safety of the child and of the abused party. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(a)(IV), -124(4)(e).
 - In determining requests for modification of parenting time, courts may consider whether one party has committed an act of domestic violence. C.R.S. 14-10-129(2)(c).
 - If the court finds that one of the parties has committed sexual assault resulting in the conception of the child, the court shall consider whether it is in the best interests of the child to prohibit or limit the parenting of that party. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(a)(IV).
- In allocating decision-making authority, courts shall consider:
 - Whether one of the parties has committed child abuse or neglect, domestic violence, or sexual assault where there is also a claim that the child in question was conceived as a result. C.R.S. 14-10-124(1.5)(b). If so, the court shall consider, as the primary concern, the safety and well-being of the child and the abused party. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(d).
 - If the court makes finding that one of the parties committed child abuse or neglect, then it shall not be in the best interests of the child to allocate mutual decision-making with respect to any issue over the objection of the other party or the legal representative of the child. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(a)(I).
 - If the court finds that one of the parties has committed an act of domestic violence, then it shall not be in the best interests of the child to allocate mutual decision-making responsibility over the objection of the other party or the legal representative of the child, unless the court finds that the parties are able to make decisions cooperatively in the best interest of the child in a manner that is safe for the abused party and the child. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(a)(II).
 - If the court finds that one of the parties has committed sexual assault and that the child was conceived as a result of the sexual assault, there is a rebuttable presumption that it is not in the best interests of the child to allocate sole or split decision-making authority, or to allocate mutual decision-making between the person found to have committed sexual assault and the assaulted party. C.R.S. 14-10-124(4)(a)(III).

- If a parent has been convicted of any of a list of crimes, the other parent—or any other person who has been granted custody of or parental responsibility for the child pursuant to court order—may file an objection to parenting time. The offending parent shall then have the burden of proving that parenting time by such parent is in the best interests of the child or children. C.R.S. 14-10-129(3). The list of crimes is lengthy, but includes:
 - Any crime, the underlying factual basis of which has been found by a court on the record to include domestic violence.
 - Murder.
 - Sexual assault.
 - Unlawful sexual contact if the victim is compelled to submit.
 - Incest and aggravated incest.
 - Most crimes against children.
- Before a neutral third person is appointed to serve as a child and family investigator, the person shall submit fingerprints for a background check, which the Judicial Department shall use to determine if they are suitable. C.R.S. 14-10-116.5(4).

Custody of Children and the Parent-Child Relationship

- A court may order termination of the parent-child legal relationship upon a finding that:
 - The parent is subject to long-term confinement, provided other conditions are met. C.R.S. 19-3-604(1)(b).
 - The parent has committed various criminal acts against a child, a sibling, or another child of the parent. C.R.S. 19-3-604.
- A court may order removal of a child, without reasonable efforts to prevent the child's removal or to reunify the child with the family, when it finds that a parent has been convicted of the following. C.R.S. 19-1-115(7).
 - Murder of another child of the parent, including aiding, abetting, attempting, conspiring, or soliciting to commit the same.
 - Voluntary manslaughter of another child of the parent, including aiding, abetting, attempting, conspiring, or soliciting to commit the same.
 - A felony assault that resulted in serious bodily injury to the child or another child of the parent.
- A court may terminate a parent-child legal relationship if it finds that the parent was convicted on or after July 1, 2013, of an act of sexual assault or a crime in which the underlying factual basis was sexual assault, and the child was conceived as a result of that act or sexual assault or crime. C.R.S. 19-5-105.5. Similar provisions apply when no conviction occurred. C.R.S. 19-5-105.7.
- Under some circumstances, a previously terminated parent-child relationship can be reinstated. Reinstatement is not possible if the original dependency and neglect action involved substantiated allegations of sexual abuse or an incident of egregious abuse or neglect against a child, a near fatality, or a suspicious fatality or near fatality. C.R.S. 19-3-612(2)(f).

- Once a court terminates a parent-child legal relationship, the child cannot be placed with an individual other than a relative of the child or an agency unless that individual is of “good moral character.” C.R.S. 19-5-104(1).

Emergency Placement of Children

- An agency shall not arrange emergency placement of a child with someone who has been convicted of:
 - o Child abuse.
 - o A crime of violence.
 - o A felony involving unlawful sexual behavior.
 - o A felony with an underlying factual basis involving domestic violence.
 - o A felony involving physical assault or a drug-related offense, if committed within the preceding five years.
 - o Violation of a protective order.
 - o A crime involving homicide.
 - o For additional information, see C.R.S. 19-3-406(4) and 12 CCR 2509-4:7.304. A criminal history check is required.
- Once a court terminates a parent-child legal relationship, the child cannot be placed with an individual other than a relative of the child or an agency unless that individual is of “good moral character.” C.R.S. 19-5-104(1).

Name Changes

- A court shall not grant a petition for a name change if the court finds the petitioner was previously convicted of a felony or adjudicated a juvenile delinquent for an offense that would constitute a felony if committed by an adult in this state or any other state or under federal law. C.R.S. 13-15-101(2)(b).
- There are several statutory exceptions to the general rule. C.R.S. 13-15-101(3).

Adoption and Foster Care

- A court shall not grant a decree of final adoption if it determines that the prospective adoptive parent was convicted at any time by a court of competent jurisdiction of a felony in one of the following areas: child abuse or neglect; spousal abuse; any crime against a child; or any crime involving violence, rape, sexual assault, or homicide, excluding other physical assault and battery. C.R.S. 19-5-210(4).
- For stepparent, kinship, or custodial adoptions, in addition to not granting a decree of final adoption in the circumstances above, the court shall not grant the decree of final adoption if it determines that the prospective adoptive parent was convicted of a felony for physical assault or battery that was committed within the past five years. C.R.S. 19-5-210(4).

- Petitions for adoption must be accompanied by a criminal history records check and a report regarding felony or misdemeanor convictions of the offenses listed above, as well as any crime the underlying factual basis of which involved domestic violence, violation of a protective order, and any physical assault or battery or felony drug-related conviction. C.R.S. 19-5-207(2.5)(a)(IV). Slightly different rules apply to stepparent, second parent, kinship, or custodial adoptions. C.R.S. 19-5-208(5).
- For additional information, see 12 CCR 2509-6:7.500.2, 12 CCR 2509-8:7.710.3, 12 CCR 2509-8:7.710.5.
- For information regarding foster care, see the Child Care section of Appendix I.

Guardian or Conservator Appointment

- A court may require a criminal background check to determine the fitness of a nominee for appointment as a guardian, emergency guardian, conservator, or special conservator. C.R.S. 15-14-110; Colorado Probate Forms 805, 834, 850.

Inheritance

- An individual who is determined to have feloniously killed the decedent forfeits all benefits with respect to the decedent's estate. C.R.S. 15-11-803(2). Including PERA benefits. 8 CCR 1502-1:2.
- A person who has been arrested on suspicion of having committed, is charged with, or has been convicted of, any felony offense specified in part 1 of article 3 of title 18, C.R.S., involving the death of the deceased person, shall not direct the final disposition of the deceased person or arrange the ceremonies for the deceased person. This does not apply if charges are not brought or the person is acquitted. C.R.S. 15-19-109.

6. Firearms

Restrictions Under Colorado Law

- It is a felony offense to knowingly possess a firearm subsequent to conviction for any felony, or subsequent to conviction for attempt or conspiracy to commit a felony, under the laws of Colorado, any other state, or federal law. C.R.S. 18-12-108. The same applies to possessing a firearm subsequent to a juvenile adjudication.
 - o A deferred judgment and sentence, pursuant to section 18-1.3-102, is a prior conviction. This appears to be true even if the deferred judgment and sentence is successfully completed.¹³
- The Colorado Bureau of Investigation shall request a background check in connection with the prospective transfer of a firearm.
 - o The transfer shall be denied if it would violate applicable state or federal laws. C.R.S. 24-33.5-424(3).
 - o The transfer shall be denied if the prospective transferee has been arrested for or charged with a crime that, if convicted, would prohibit the transferee from purchasing, receiving, or possessing a firearm. C.R.S. 24-33.5-424(3).
- A concealed handgun permit shall be denied, revoked, or refused to renew to an individual who:
 - o Has been convicted of perjury in relation to a permit application. C.R.S. 18-12-203(1).
 - o Is subject to any of several types of protective orders. C.R.S. 18-12-203(1).

C.R.S. 18-1-1001(9).

7. Citizenship and Immigration

Immigration and citizenship related consequences are imposed by federal law, and are therefore outside the scope of this publication. The information below is provided to highlight general concerns.

Any non-citizen convicted of a crime may face either removal from the United States or classification as “inadmissible.” Juvenile adjudications generally do not count as convictions for purposes of immigration law, and thus generally do not trigger conviction-based grounds for deportability or inadmissibility.¹⁴ They can, however, serve as evidence of conduct-based grounds for the same. Additionally, convictions of juveniles as adults are typically considered convictions for purposes of immigration law.

Consequences of Conviction for Non-Citizens

- Inadmissibility: Certain crimes can render a person inadmissible. This means that if the person leaves the United States, they will not be able to return.
- Deportation: Certain crimes can render a person deportable. This means that the person can be removed from the country.
- Other possible consequences include but are not limited to:
 - o Inability to obtain deferred action for childhood arrivals.
 - o Inability to obtain asylum or protected status.
 - o Inability to obtain cancellation of removal.
 - o Inability to become a citizen.
 - o Inability to become a legal permanent resident.

Inadmissibility

- Most non-citizens who are deemed inadmissible will not be able to reenter if they leave the country. If an undocumented immigrant is determined inadmissible, he or she will be removed from the country and then barred from seeking readmission for a period of time.
- Subject to limited exceptions and waivers, grounds for inadmissibility include:
 - o Conviction of, or admission to having committed, any crime involving moral turpitude. Note that the definition of “moral turpitude” is different in this context than in the rest of this publication.
 - o Conviction of, or admission to having committed, any crime relating to a controlled substance. A limited exception applies for a single possession of a small amount of marijuana.
 - o Conviction of two or more criminal offenses, the resulting aggregate sentences to confinement for which were five years or more.
- Subject to limited exceptions and waivers, conduct-based grounds for inadmissibility include:

¹⁴ In re Devison-Charles, 22 I. & N. Dec. 1362 (BIA 2000).

- Health related grounds, including physical or mental disorders.
- Drug abuse or addiction.
- Controlled substance trafficking.
- Prostitution or commercialized vice.
- Trafficking in persons.
- Money laundering.
- Security related grounds.
- Illegal presence in the United States.
- Falsely claiming citizenship.
- This list is not complete. For additional information, see 8 U.S.C. § 1182.

Deportability

- Subject to limited exceptions and waivers, grounds for deportation include:
 - Conviction of a single crime involving moral turpitude within five years of admission for which a sentence of one year or longer may be imposed.
 - Conviction of two or more crimes involving moral turpitude, in separate criminal episodes, regardless of the time after admission or the sentence imposed.
 - Conviction of any aggravated felony.
 - Conviction of violating any controlled substance law, other than a single offense involving possession for one's own use of thirty grams or less of marijuana.
 - Conviction of a firearms offense.
 - Conviction of a crime of domestic violence, stalking, child abuse, child neglect, or child abandonment.
- Subject to limited exceptions and waivers, conduct-based grounds for deportation include:
 - Illegal presence in the United States.
 - Smuggling aliens.
 - Drug abuser or addict.
 - Certain violations of a protective order.
 - Trafficking in persons.
 - Falsely claiming citizenship.
 - Security related grounds.
- This list is not complete. For additional information, see 8 U.S.C. § 1227.

Inability to Obtain Citizenship

- In order to become a naturalized citizen, a person must be of good moral character while in the United States for a minimum of five years. 8 U.S.C. § 1427(a).
- No person shall be regarded as one of good moral character if during the period for which good moral character is required the person was:
 - Confined in a jail or prison for an aggregate of 180 days.
 - Convicted of an aggravated felony at any time.
 - Convicted of two or more gambling offenses.

- A member of one or more of the classes of persons described in the inadmissibility statute, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a), based upon offenses or actions.
- This list is not complete. For additional information, see 8 U.S.C. § 1101(f).

Offenses by Juveniles

The intricacies of Colorado's Children's Code are largely outside the scope of this publication. A prior conviction or adjudication can, however, have a profound effect on issues including whether a case is handled in juvenile or adult court, bail eligibility, and what sentence will ultimately be imposed. C.R.S. 19-2-509, 19-2-516, 19-2-517, 19-2-518, 19-2-601, 19-2-908.

10. Special Considerations for Sexual Offenses

People convicted of sex offenses face a wide array of consequences beyond prison time. This chapter is intended to highlight those consequences and provide references to the applicable portions of this publication. In addition to the consequences listed below, all of the consequences applicable to any conviction will typically also apply to a sexual offense.

Because sexual offense related consequences change frequently and are often imposed by local governments, they cannot be fully documented in this publication. The following considerations are, however, likely to apply.

Residency and Zoning Restrictions

- Colorado does not have a statewide law concerning where sex offenders can live. Many municipalities and counties within Colorado—as well as many other states—do have such laws.
- Residency restrictions range from limitations on proximity to facilities such as schools, parks, and daycares, to effective banishment from a city or town. Some policies apply only to sexually violent predators and specifically include or exclude juveniles; others apply more broadly. Zoning restrictions in some areas limit the number of unrelated sexual offenders living together. Additionally, some loitering ordinances target individuals who have been convicted of sexual crimes. Violation of such policies can result in civil or criminal penalties.

Registration Requirements

- Colorado's registration laws are complex and frequently changing. C.R.S. 16-22-101 to 16-22-115. Registration requirements may be triggered either by conviction of a sexual offense or conviction of an offense with an underlying factual basis involving unlawful sexual behavior. C.R.S. 16-22-103.
- A conviction for many types of sex offenses will result in the individual's name, photograph, address, physical description, and a description of the offense committed being posted on a public internet site. C.R.S. 16-22-111.
- Registration laws and opportunities to terminate registration obligations vary greatly among states and many are experiencing further modification in response to the Adam Walsh Act, a piece of federal legislation enacted in 2006 and still being implemented.
- Being deemed a sexually violent predator triggers specific rules regarding public community notification meetings when the person moves, internet registration, and quarterly registration for life. C.R.S. 16-13-901 to 16-13-906, 16-22-111.
- Registration generally requires payment of fees and personal appearances at local law enforcement agencies. The person registering may be required to provide and keep current with local law enforcement his or her addresses for home, work, and school, as well as information concerning his or her vehicles, e-mail addresses, etc.

Travel Between States and Internationally

- A person who has successfully been removed from one state's registry cannot assume he or she will not be required to register in another state. A person whose registration obligations in another state have already been terminated will still be required to register in Colorado until he or she obtains a court order in Colorado absolving him or her from registration here. C.R.S. 16-22-103(3).
- Some states restrict a wide array of activities by sex offenders, such as taking photographs of children, trick-or-treating, or entering public libraries. These restrictions may apply regardless of where the offender was convicted.
- Due to the diversity of registration obligations, anyone traveling outside of Colorado even for a short time should carefully investigate his or her obligations since full registration may be required in another jurisdiction depending on the length of the trip and rules of that jurisdiction.
- Other nations can and do prohibit the admission of individuals convicted of a wide range of offenses. Mexico, in particular, has recently enacted a policy of denying admission to individuals convicted of sex crimes against children. Instituto Nacional de Migración, Boletín 09/14.

Social Stigma

- Even when a person's registration status does not require public posting on the Colorado Bureau of Investigation's website, many private entities make available information concerning adult and juvenile sex offenders (i.e. The Denver Post website).
- Those convicted of sexual offenses may not be permitted on social networking sites such as Facebook.
- Nationally there have been numerous incidences of vigilantism against those believed to have committed a sexual crime.

Records Sealing and Collateral Consequence Relief

Sexual offenses are excluded from several record sealing and expunging provisions, mechanisms for relieving collateral consequences, and diversion opportunities. See Why Criminal Records Matter.

11. Special Considerations for Controlled Substance Offenses

Conviction for a controlled substance related offense can result in consequences not typically associated with other crimes. This chapter is intended to highlight those consequences and provide references to the applicable portions of this publication. In addition to the consequences listed below, all of the consequences applicable to any conviction will typically also apply to a controlled substance related offense.

What would otherwise be a felony conviction for some types of controlled substance offenses can be converted to a misdemeanor upon successful completion of a community-based sentence. C.R.S. 18-1.3-103.5. This mechanism was designed to reduce the significant negative consequences associated with a felony conviction. Several exclusions apply based upon prior criminal history. C.R.S. 18-1.3-103.5(4). People charged with a crime should recognize, however, that many of the consequences listed in this publication also apply to misdemeanors.

For information on consequences specific to controlled substance related offenses, review the following chapters and sections of this publication.
